Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Section 51-5 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Regulation 51-5.01 Income Tax Assessment Regulations 1997

Certain allowances and bounties payable to Australian Defence Force personnel are exempt from income tax. These include the following allowances — separation, living out, living away from home, child education, scholarship, retention of lodging, disturbance, transfer and deployment allowances — and re-engagement bounties.

In the case of living away from home allowances and living allowances paid to Australian Defence Force personnel, the benchmark treatment is compensation for the actual additional cost faced by employees in living away from their homes. Accordingly, this tax expenditure relates solely to that part of the allowance that is in excess of this compensation.

The market value of rations and quarters supplied without charge to Australian Defence Force personnel is exempt from income tax.

A10 Exemption of compensation for loss of deployment allowance paid to Australian Defence Force members

Defence ($m)

Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Section 23AB Income Tax Assessment Act 1936

Australian Federal Police and civilian personnel contributed by Australia to an armed force of the United Nations may receive compensation in respect of death, impairment or incapacity resulting from their service. Such compensation payments are exempt from income tax. The estate of a deceased civilian who has performed United Nations service may also receive relief from unpaid tax in respect of pay and allowances. In addition, a partial income tax exemption applies to living allowances paid to civilians who died during periods of United Nations service.

A16 Tax offsets for Australian Defence Force personnel serving overseas and for Australian Federal Police and civilians serving with United Nations forces

Defence ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Australian Defence Force personnel who serve overseas and civilian personnel contributed by Australia to an armed force of the United Nations may be eligible for a tax offset. Personnel or civilians qualify for the full offset amount if their total period of overseas service is more than half the income year or if they die while on service. Personnel or civilians who serve for less than half the income year receive a proportion of the full amount. The offset is made up of a base amount with additional entitlements for individuals who maintain dependants.

Tax expenditures for education

A17 Denial of deductibility for certain self-education expenses

Education ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Course fees and interest repayments for a Higher Education Contribution Scheme Higher Education Loan Programme (HECS-HELP) place funded by the individual are not tax deductible, even for the proportion that relates to income earning activities.

Self-education expenses would otherwise be deductible to the extent that the self-education is to maintain or improve skills or knowledge which the taxpayer uses in income earning activities.

A18 Exemption of income from certain educational scholarships, payments to apprentices or similar forms of assistance

Education ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Commencement date:	Introduced before 1985
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Sections 842-105 and 51-10 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Income derived by way of scholarships, bursaries or other educational allowances to a student receiving full-time education at a school, college or university may be exempt from income tax. Income derived as part of an Australian Government scheme to assist secondary education or the education of isolated children is exempt from income tax, excluding federal education or training payments or education entry payments provided under the Social Security Act 1991.

Income derived by way of scholarships, allowances, bursaries or other education allowances provided by the Australian Government to an overseas student may also be exempt from income tax.

Grants from the Australian American Educational Foundation (that is, Fulbright Scholarships) are exempt if they are from funds made available to the Foundation under the agreement establishing it.

Commonwealth Trade Learning Scholarships are also exempt. These are payments of $500 which are made to eligible new apprentices on successful completion of the first and second years of a new apprenticeship in a skill shortage trade, from 1 July 2005.

Tax expenditure type:	Denial of deduction	2006 TES code:	A18
Commencement date:	Introduced before 1985
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Section 82A Income Tax Assessment Act 1936

Self-education expenses are deductible if the purpose of the self-education is to maintain or improve skills or knowledge which the taxpayer uses in income earning activities. In certain circumstances taxpayers may have to reduce their allowable self-education expenses by $250, which may reduce the deduction that they can claim for self-education expenses. Self-education expenses that are non-deductible, such as child care costs and non-deductible travel expenses which relate to self-education, can be offset against the $250 threshold.

Tax expenditures for health

A20 Deduction for payment of United Medical Protection Limited support payments

Health ($m)

Tax expenditure type:	Exemption, Deferral	2006 TES code:	A55
Commencement date:	1995	 Category*	3+
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Section 26AAC and Division 13A Income Tax Assessment Act 1936

Discounts on shares (or rights to acquire shares) acquired under an employee share acquisition scheme are generally included in the taxpayer's assessable income in the year in which the share or right was acquired. A taxpayer may defer the inclusion of discounts on qualifying shares or rights for up to 10 years. Alternatively, the taxpayer may elect to bring the discount on qualifying shares or rights to assessment in the year of acquisition and benefit from an exemption on the first $1,000. These concessions apply under certain conditions, in particular the share or right must be acquired after 28 March 1995. The concessions also apply to stapled securities that include an ordinary share and are listed on the Australian Stock Exchange with effect from 1 July 2006. Certain other shares or rights acquired before 28 March 1995 were eligible for an exemption on the first $200 of the discount.

A53 Tax deferral advantage arising from return of after-tax contributions to a pension or annuity

Other economic affairs - Total labour and employment affairs ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11
*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*

Commencement date:	Introduced before 1985	 Category*	na
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Section 27H Income Tax Assessment Act 1936

The value of a pension or annuity may partly consist of contributions towards the income stream from the recipient's after-tax income. This part of the income stream is not taxed again when it is returned in the form of pension or annuity payments. A tax expenditure arises because the tax free part of a pension or annuity is apportioned evenly over the term of the income stream, providing a tax deferral advantage.

A54 Denial of deductions for illegal activities

Other economic affairs - Other economic affairs, nec ($m)

Commencement date:	1 July 2004
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Division 30 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Individual taxpayers may claim an income tax deduction for the net amount of contributions made to a deductible gift recipient even though the taxpayer receives an associated minor benefit (subject to certain conditions). The deduction available is the contribution less the market value of the minor benefit.

From 1 January 2007, the thresholds of the minor benefits provision will be changed to improve the measure's accessibility and allow a larger benefit to be received. The minimum contribution an individual must make to be eligible for a deduction is reduced from $250 to $150, and the value of the benefit that can be received is increased from 10 to 20 per cent of the contribution. The maximum capped benefit allowed for each contribution is increased from $100 to $150.

The tax sparing provisions in Australia's tax treaties apply to tax incentives (for example, tax holidays) offered by developing countries to foreign investors. The effect of these tax sparing provisions is that income earned by Australian taxpayers who invest in certain developing countries is effectively subject to a tax exemption. Under tax sparing, the tax forgone by the country providing the tax concession to Australian resident investors is deemed to have been paid for the purposes of Australia's foreign tax credit system. This enables Australian residents to claim a tax credit in relation to their investments despite receiving a tax concession by the foreign country. Tax sparing arrangements in most tax treaties have now expired.

Legislative reference:	Sections 26AH and 160AAB of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936

Some life insurance investment policyholders receive a concessional rate of tax because the policyholders' undistributed income is taxed at the company rate.

When a life insurance policy matures, is forfeited, or is surrendered the income distributed is known as a reversionary bonus. Reversionary bonuses that are distributed to policyholders more than 10 years after the commencement of the policy are exempt from further tax. If the bonuses are distributed in the ninth or tenth year after commencement of the policy, then only a fraction (two thirds or one third respectively) of the bonuses are taxable. If the bonuses are distributed within eight years of the commencement of the policy, they are fully taxable. To the extent that reversionary bonuses are taxable, then policyholders are allowed a rebate at the company rate of tax.

This tax expenditure ensures that reversionary bonuses, on which a life insurance company has paid tax, are not subject to a form of double taxation when paid to policyholders during the taxable period of a policy.

The proceeds paid to shareholders who participate in an off-market share buy-back are split into a dividend component and a capital component. The dividend component of the buy-back proceeds may be fully franked. This allows companies that undertake off-market share buy-backs to distribute franking credits to participating shareholders beyond the level that would normally be available. Treating part of the proceeds as a dividend makes off-market share buy-backs more attractive to low rate taxpayers. This facilitates streaming of franking credits to those shareholders that can obtain the most benefit with the tax expenditure equal to the difference in tax payable had those franking credits been distributed uniformly to all shareholders.

The tax expenditure from off-market share buy-backs may be partly offset by the anti-streaming provisions in the income tax law that operate to ensure that part of the buy-back proceeds are treated as capital (and therefore give rise to a capital gain or a capital loss rather than a franked dividend).

Projections beyond 2006-07 are not reported because of the likely volatility of this item.

Payments made under the refundable tax offset for large scale film production are exempt from tax. Producers of qualifying large scale films are eligible to receive a refundable tax offset equivalent to 12.5 per cent of qualifying Australian production expenditure on a film. The offset is paid through the tax system directly to producers.

Producers of qualifying Australian films are eligible to receive a refundable producer tax offset equivalent to 40 per cent of qualifying Australian production expenditure incurred on a feature film, or 20 per cent of qualifying Australian production expenditure incurred on films that are not feature films. The producer tax offset is available in relation to qualifying Australian production expenditure incurred on or after 1 July 2007.

Producers of qualifying large scale films are eligible to receive a refundable location tax offset equivalent to 15 per cent of qualifying Australian production expenditure on a film which commenced principal photography on or after 8 May 2007. Films which commenced principal photography prior to 8 May 2007 will continue to be eligible for the 12.5 per cent offset.

A refundable tax offset is available for qualifying Australian production expenditure that relates to the post, digital and visual effects production of a film. The offset is equivalent to 15 per cent of qualifying Australian production expenditure and is available for post, digital and visual effects production that commences on or after 1 July 2007.

A prepayment in relation to investments in infrastructure bonds, shares, units, rental property and arrangements entered into before 1 July 2000, to which product rulings apply, continues to be immediately deductible. This is conditional upon the prepayment expenditure meeting the requirements described in the tax expenditure Prepayment rule for Simplified Tax System taxpayers and non-business expenditure by individuals. The benchmark treatment of prepayments is that they are deductible over the period of the expenditure. The tax expenditure allows deductions to be spread over a shorter period and consequently it allows greater deductions than the benchmark treatment.

Prepayments on seasonally dependent agronomic operations in the establishment of a forestry plantation are immediately deductible. This is conditional upon the prepayment expenditure meeting the requirements of section 82KZMG, including that the activities in question are completed within 12 months of the prepayment being made or the activities commencing and by the end of the following financial year. This tax expenditure is available for investors in forestry managed investment schemes. The benchmark treatment of prepayments is that they are deductible over the period of the expenditure. The tax expenditure allows deductions to be spread over a shorter period and consequently it allows greater deductions than the benchmark treatment.

The prepayment rule has been replaced by a statutory deduction for investments in forestry managed investment schemes.

Prepayments by Simplified Tax System taxpayers and non-business prepayments by individual taxpayers are immediately deductible. This is conditional upon the service being provided over a period not exceeding 12 months and ending at the end of the income year following the income year in which the prepayment expenditure is incurred. This provision replaced the remaining applications of the '13 month rule' (described in the tax expenditure Transitional arrangements for prepayments), which was previously removed on 21 September 1999 for businesses with a turnover of $1 million or more per annum.

From 1 July 2007, small businesses with average annual turnover of less than $2 million have been able to access this concession under the Small Business Framework.

Before 21 September 1999, an immediate prepayment deduction was available for expenditure for services provided within 13 months after the prepayment expenditure was incurred. This immediate deduction subsequently was removed and a five-year transitional rule was introduced to phase in the impact of its removal. The benchmark treatment of prepayments is that they are deductible over the period of the expenditure. The negative tax expenditure in the transitional period reflects the phasing in of the removal of the immediate prepayment deduction.

Commencement date:	1961	 Category*	na
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Sections 385-90 to 385-125 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Primary producers are eligible for a tax concession on the forced disposal or death of livestock resulting from certain events. These events include:

- the compulsory acquisition of land;
- destruction of pasture by drought, flood or fire;
- compulsory destruction of livestock for disease control; or
- notification of contamination of property or a cattle tick eradication campaign.

Primary producers who receive income from such disposals or deaths can elect to defer this income and use it to reduce the cost of replacement livestock in the disposal year or in any of the next five income years. Alternatively, primary producers can elect to spread profits between the income year of the disposal or death and the next four income years (or 10 years if the forced disposal was in relation to the control of bovine tuberculosis).

Commencement date:	1999	 Category*	na
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Schedule 2G and Division 393 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936

The Farm Management Deposit (FMD) scheme allows primary producers (with a limited amount of non-primary production income) to defer their income tax liability. Primary producers are able to claim deductions for their FMD made in the year of deposit, with subsequent withdrawals being subject to assessment in the year of withdrawal. The FMD has a maximum limit on deposits of $400,000. Primary producers in exceptional circumstance areas are able to withdraw their deposits within 12 months while maintaining the concessional tax treatment of the scheme. The FMD scheme replaced the Income Equalisation Deposits and Farm Management Bonds schemes on 2 January 1999.

Projections beyond 2007-08 are not reported as the tax expenditure is very sensitive to variations in the amounts deposited and withdrawn in any year, which are dependent on a number of external factors.

Primary producers can elect to pay tax at a tax rate based on their average income earned over the previous five income years. If the taxpayer has not been using this facility for five years, the tax rate is based on the income years in which averaging has applied, and the previous year. This provides a concession because, on balance, the saving from paying less tax in high income years outweighs additional tax paid in low income years.

Projections beyond 2007-08 are not reported as the tax expenditure is very sensitive to variations in primary production income, which depends on a number of external factors.

Small businesses that have an annual turnover of $50,000 or less are eligible for a tax offset of 25 per cent of the income tax liability attributable to their business income. The offset phases out for annual turnover between $50,001 and $75,000. From 1 July 2007, this concession applies to any small business entity, whereas previously the concession only applied to taxpayers in the then Simplified Tax System.

Venture capital fund managers may be paid a performance-based share of partnership profits by investors. Such performance payments are 'carried interests'. Under the benchmark, these entitlements are taxable income of the fund managers as they accrue. Instead, an entitlement to receive a carried interest is a capital gains tax event in the hands of venture capital fund managers and is not treated as income. Consequently, taxation of the income is deferred until the gains are realised. Individual managers are eligible for the 50 per cent discount on their carried interest.

Taxpayers are able to claim a deduction for some or all of the cost of the capital protection associated with capital protected borrowings.

The cost of capital protected borrowings includes the cost of borrowing and the cost of capital protection. Under the benchmark, the cost of borrowing is deductible, however the cost of capital protection where it is considered capital in nature is not deductible but instead included in the cost base of the asset.

Since 16 April, 2003 a concessional interest rate has been used to value the capital protection component of these losses.

'Solvency clauses' do not preclude certain term subordinated notes from being classed as debt for tax purposes. A solvency clause allows the issuer to defer payment if the payment would cause insolvency. Under the benchmark, term subordinated notes with solvency clauses would typically be classified as equity under the debt-equity rules.

Note: estimates include tax expenditures B55 and B58

Concessional taxation treatment is available to investment companies that are established and registered as Pooled Development Funds (PDFs). Income arising from investments in small to medium enterprises is taxed at 15 per cent and other income is taxed at 25 per cent. These concessional tax rates are designed to encourage PDFs to invest in small to medium enterprises. In addition, investors who invest in PDFs are not liable for tax either on dividends paid by the PDF or on capital gains made on the sale of their shares in the PDF.

The PDF program was closed to applications for registration on 21 June 2007 as a result of the new tax concessions for early stage venture capital limited partnerships. The PDF program continues to operate for registered PDFs.

Resident and foreign partners are exempt from tax on revenue and capital gains derived in respect of their eligible investments in early stage venture capital limited partnerships.

An early stage venture capital limited partnership is a flow-through investment vehicle that is progressively replacing the Pooled Development Fund program.

To qualify as an early stage venture capital limited partnership, the size of the fund cannot exceed $100 million and the total assets of investee companies cannot exceed $50 million immediately prior to investment. The early stage venture capital limited partnership must divest itself of any holdings once the total assets of the investee company exceed $250 million.

Companies with an annual turnover of less than $5 million that undertake up to $1 million of research and development (R&D) are eligible to receive a refundable tax offset equivalent to the value of the R&D tax concession, that is, at the rate of either 125 per cent or 175 per cent.

The refundable R&D tax offset is an expense item and accordingly does not appear as a tax expenditure in its own right. Payments made under the refundable R&D offset are exempt from tax.

In addition, companies that claim the refundable R&D tax offset are unable to claim deductions for the R&D expenditures concerned. This is because the refundable R&D tax offset has already provided these companies with a benefit equivalent to the value of these deductions. The absence of these deductions constitutes a negative tax expenditure and explains why the estimates become negative from 2005-06.

Expenditure on core technology, except where incurred by companies in partnerships, is deductible at a rate of 100 per cent over the period of related research and development activities. This deduction is only available if the deduction is not greater than one third of the firm's expenditure on related research and development. The benchmark treatment for such expenditure is that it is deductible over its effective life and consequently the scope for the 100 per cent rate potentially allows a greater rate of deduction than the benchmark.

The family trust rules provide a concession to the 'test individual' of a family trust, and their family group, by allowing the transfer of losses and debt deductions to members of the family trust.

The trust loss rules - the benchmark - restrict trust losses and debt deductions from being transferred to persons who did not bear the economic burden. This is achieved by imposing tests on trusts to determine if any losses and debt deductions can be claimed. The tests examine whether there has been a change in underlying ownership or control of a trust and whether certain schemes have been entered into in order to take advantage of losses or debt deductions. Family trusts have to satisfy only the income injection test. The income injection test relates to schemes where persons outside the defined family group inject income into the trust to take advantage of trust losses and debt deductions. Distributions of trust income or capital made outside the family group will generally be subject to a family trust distribution tax.

Primary producers and users of rural land with taxable incomes of up to $20,000 a year were able to claim a 30 per cent tax offset for capital expenditure on soil conservation, prevention of land degradation and related measures incurred until the end of the 2000-01 income year. This concession was claimed as an alternative to the landcare deduction. The tax offset was based on one third of the eligible expenditure and was available in the year the expenditure was incurred and in each of the subsequent two years.

The offset will continue to apply after 1 July 2002 to expenditure incurred before that date where the offset is apportioned over three years, or where taxpayers had insufficient tax payable to claim the entire offset in earlier income years.

Note: estimates include tax expenditures B75 and B77

Accelerated depreciation allows a taxpayer depreciation deductions at a higher rate than the expected decline in value of the asset.

An accelerated depreciation allowance was provided for plant and equipment acquired under contract, or commenced to be constructed, on or after 27 February 1992. This concession was removed for individuals and businesses with an annual turnover of $1 million or more on 21 September 1999. The treatment was removed for individuals and businesses with annual turnovers under $1 million from 1 July 2001, when they could elect to enter the Simplified Tax System and use the simplified capital allowances system.

The negative estimates for this tax expenditure stem from the fact that accelerated depreciation allows greater deductions early in an asset's effective life, offset by smaller deductions later in its effective life. With the removal of accelerated depreciation, the tax expenditure estimates became negative from 2002-03. This is because, from that date, deductions for assets acquired before accelerated depreciation was abolished are lower than they would have been if depreciation were calculated over the effective life of the asset.

This tax expenditure will have an ongoing impact until all plant and equipment that utilised this concession would have otherwise been fully depreciated under the uniform capital allowance.

Australian trading ships, commissioned between 29 July 1977 and 1 July 1997, can be depreciated on a prime cost basis over five years. Plant, including plumbing fixtures and fittings, acquired for providing meals, meal facilities, clothing cupboards, first aid, restrooms or recreational facilities for employees or their children, was deductible over three years. This concession was removed for individuals and businesses with a turnover of $1 million or more per annum on 21 September 1999. The treatment was removed for individuals and businesses with turnovers of less than $1 million per annum from 1 July 2001. These businesses can elect to enter the Simplified Tax System from this time and use the simplified capital allowances system. This tax expenditure will have a transitional impact until all eligible plant expenditure has been fully depreciated.

'Statutory effective life caps' act to override the Commissioner of Taxation's determinations of the 'safe harbour' effective life of assets in certain cases. This provides a shorter write-off period for those assets subject to a statutory cap where the effective life determined by the Commissioner exceeds the cap.

Statutory caps exist for a range of assets, including:

- aircraft and certain assets used in the oil and gas industries (effective from 1 July 2002);
- trucks, truck trailers, buses and light commercial vehicles (effective from 1 January 2005); and
- tractors and harvesters (effective from 1 July 2007).

A taxpayer can claim a deduction for capital works expenditure incurred in constructing capital works, including buildings and structural improvements and environment protection earthworks.

The deduction is either 2.5 per cent (over 40 years) or 4 per cent (over 25 years) of the construction expenditure, depending on when construction started and how the capital works are used.

A capital works deduction is generally available if the capital works are used for income producing purposes.

'Balancing adjustments' arise when the disposal value of a depreciating asset varies from its depreciated value. The tax liability for such balancing adjustments can be deferred where the balancing adjustment arises from certain changes in ownership, such as disposal as a result of a marriage breakdown. The transferee is taken to acquire the asset at the written down value and must depreciate the asset in the same way as the transferor.

Prior to 21 September 1999, balancing adjustment offsets were also available when replacement items of plant and equipment were acquired. This treatment is available to businesses with turnover of less than $1 million for assets acquired before 1 July 2001.

Assets costing less than $1,000 can be written off at the declining balance rate of 37.5 per cent through a low value asset pool. Once a taxpayer elects to create a low value pool, all assets that cost less than $1,000 are subject to the declining balance rate treatment. A low value asset pool is available to taxpayers who choose not to, or are ineligible to, enter the Simplified Tax System.

A low value pool mechanism for the depreciation of assets was introduced to reduce taxpayers' compliance costs by removing the need to track individual items for depreciation purposes.

Companies that increase expenditure on labour related components of research and development (R&D) which are Australian-owned are eligible to receive a 175 per cent tax concession for increases above the average of the previous three years' R&D expenditure. The 175 per cent premium covers all additional R&D expenditure excluding plant, pilot plant, contracted plant, plant leases, core technology, R&D related interest and items excluded from the 125 per cent R&D tax concession.

The concession is available to the extent that total R&D expenditure has increased. Total R&D expenditure includes both the Australian-owned and foreign-owned components of the premium tax concession. This deduction has been available to companies from the first income year starting after 30 June 2001.

Companies that undertake research and development (R&D) on behalf of a grouped foreign company are eligible for a 175 per cent tax concession for increases in R&D expenditure above the average of the previous three years' of R&D expenditure. Expenditure on behalf of a grouped foreign company which contributes to the calculation of the 175 per cent tax concession must be labour related and will be subject to a specific deduction at the rate of 100 per cent.

The concession is only available to the extent that total R&D expenditure has increased. Total R&D expenditure includes both the Australian-owned and foreign-owned components of the premium tax concession. This deduction has been available to companies from 1 July 2007.

Small businesses with annual turnover of less than $2 million may choose to use a simplified capital allowances regime for depreciating assets. Small businesses may write off immediately purchases costing less than $1,000 and depreciate assets that cost $1,000 or more at accelerated rates under a pooled arrangement. Depreciating assets with an effective life of less than 25 years are depreciated in a general pool at a rate of 30 per cent. Depreciating assets with an effective life of 25 years or more are depreciated in a long life pool at a rate of 5 per cent.

Prior to July 2007, this concession was available only to taxpayers that were part of the former Simplified Tax System. As part of aligning small business thresholds, the turnover eligibility threshold was raised from $1 million to $2 million.

Investors in forestry managed investment schemes (MIS) are able to claim immediate upfront deductions for their expenditure on such schemes, provided that, amongst other requirements, at least 70 per cent of the expenditure is directly related to developing forestry.

The statutory deduction means that investors in forestry MIS are unaffected by the ruling by the Commissioner of Taxation in Taxation Ruling TR2007/8 that, with effect from 1 July 2008, investments in agricultural managed investment schemes (including forestry) are capital in nature and therefore not deductible.

Interests in forestry MISs can be traded, subject to a four-year holding period rule and a market value pricing rule for initial investors. The proceeds on the sale or harvest of a forestry MIS interest by an initial investor are taxable income of the investor.

A related party at call loan is typically a loan made to a company by a related entity, has no fixed term and is repayable on demand. Under the benchmark debt-equity rules, such a loan would generally give rise to an equity interest rather than a debt interest. This means that interest payable on the loan would be frankable (but not deductible by the company).

From 1 July 2005, these loans are taken to be debt interests for companies that have an annual turnover of less than $20 million.

A tax exemption applies to life insurance companies on one-third of specified management fees received on certain life insurance policies taken out before 1 July 2000. Specified management fees do not apply on all life insurance policies. For example, there are no specified management fees on policies where amounts would be paid only on death or disability of a person. This exemption ceases to apply to amounts that become specified management fees after 30 June 2005.

Capital gains arising from the sale of active small business assets are exempt from capital gains tax, up to a lifetime limit of $500,000, where the proceeds of the sale are used for retirement. An eligible small business is one where the net value of assets that the taxpayer and connected entities own is no more than $6 million.

From 1 July 2007, small businesses with average annual turnover of less than $2 million have been able to access this concession under the Small Business Framework without having to satisfy the net value of assets test.

C2 Capped taxation rates for lump sum payments for unused recreation and long service leave

Legislative reference:	Sections 26AC, 26AD, 159S and 159SA Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Subdivisions 83-A and 83-B Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

A maximum tax rate of 30 per cent plus the Medicare levy applies to lump sum payments in lieu of unused long service or annual leave which accrued before 18 August 1993, or which are made in circumstances of bona fide redundancy, invalidity or under an early retirement scheme. All other lump sum payments in respect of unused annual or long service leave which accrued after 18 August 1993 are taxed at individual marginal rates.

C3 Concessional taxation of non-superannuation termination benefits

Non-superannuation termination payments are generally paid by employers to terminating employees. Before 1 July 2007 these amounts were taxed in the same way as superannuation lump sums from untaxed funds with the exception of bona fide redundancy payments and approved early retirement scheme payments which were tax free up to certain limits. This tax expenditure excludes the treatment of payments in lieu of leave.

From 1 July 2007, non-superannuation termination payments are taxed differently to lump sums paid from untaxed funds. Pre-June 1983 and invalidity amounts are tax free, and the residual is taxed at 15 per cent for amounts up to $140,000 (indexed) for recipients aged above preservation age and at 30 per cent for those aged under preservation age. Amounts in excess of $140,000 are taxed at the top marginal tax rate. The Medicare levy is payable in addition to these rates. Transitional arrangements also apply for entitlements in place as at 9 May 2006. The tax treatment of genuine redundancy payments and early retirement scheme payments has not changed.

This tax expenditure excludes the treatment of payments in lieu of leave (see the tax expenditures Capped taxation rates for lump sum payments for unused recreation and long service leave and Taxation of five per cent of unused long service leave accumulated by 15 August 1978).

Legislative reference:	Paragraph 115-10(b) and subparagraph 115-100(b)(i) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Capital gains made by complying superannuation funds are taxed concessionally. Two-thirds of any nominal capital gain made from a capital gains tax event occurring on or after 21 September 1999 is included in the assessable income of a fund, provided the fund has held the asset for at least one year. The effect of this item is in addition to the effect of lower tax rates for superannuation investments reported in the tax expenditure Superannuation - concessional taxation of superannuation entity earnings. The amounts reported reflect the additional tax that would be raised at fund rates on the same investments if total nominal capital gains were taxed instead of discounted gains or gains with frozen indexation.

C5 Superannuation - concessional taxation of employer contributions

Social security and welfare ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11
8100	7900	9500	9400	10150	10850	11550	12250

Tax expenditure type:	Exemption, Reduction in taxable value	2006 TES code:	C1
Commencement date:	Introduced before 1985
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Before 1 July 2007: Part III, Division 3, Subdivisions AA Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Part IX Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Superannuation contributions tax acts (surcharge acts) After 1 July 2007: Divisions 290, 292 and 295 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Currently, employer contributions, after certain costs of the superannuation entity are deducted, are generally taxed in the assessable income of a superannuation entity at a concessional rate of 15 per cent. Concessional deductible contributions subject to the 15 per cent tax rate are limited to $50,000 per annum for all individuals, subject to transitional arrangements for persons aged 50 and over at $100,000 per annum. Contributions above these limits are taxed at the top marginal tax rate and Medicare Levy by applying an additional tax of 31.5 per cent on the excess contribution payable by the individual.

Before 1 July 2007, employers were not entitled to a deduction for contributions in excess of an employee's age-based limit.

The superannuation surcharge for higher income earners applied to some of these contributions in 2004-05 and earlier financial years. The maximum surcharge rates were reduced from the original 15 per cent to 14.5 per cent in 2003-04, and to 12.5 per cent in 2004-05. The surcharge was abolished for contributions made on or after 1 July 2005.

In any particular year, the application of the benchmark treatment rather than the concessional tax rates to these contributions would increase tax revenue by the amounts indicated.

C6 Superannuation - concessional taxation of superannuation entity earnings

Social security and welfare ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Commencement date:	Introduced before 1985
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Before 1 July 2007: Part IX Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 After 1 July 2007: Division 295 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

The earnings of complying superannuation entities, after certain costs of the entities are deducted, are taxed at a concessional rate. The tax rate on earnings is 15 per cent (for the accumulation phase) or nil where they are derived from assets which are used to meet current pension liabilities (drawdown phase). Complying superannuation funds are entitled to refunds of excess imputation credits attached to dividends payable to the fund.

For financial year 2007-08 and later years, this item also includes the concessional taxation of fund earnings on funded superannuation income streams for persons aged 60 or over (for earlier years all superannuation income stream related items are included in the tax expenditure Superannuation – tax on funded superannuation income streams).

This tax expenditure reflects the extra tax in a particular year that would be collected if superannuation earnings of that year were held constant, but were taxed at the personal tax rates of members rather than fund rates. The effect of taxation on subsequent accumulations, earnings and tax is not taken into account.

C7 Superannuation - concessional taxation of unfunded superannuation

Social security and welfare ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Legislative reference:	Part III, Division 2, Subdivision AA Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Part III, Division 14 Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Part III, Division 17, Subdivision AAA Income Tax Assessnebt Act 1936 Part IX Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Superannuation contributions tax acts (surcharge acts) Part 3-30 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Subdivision 320-D Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Part 3-30 Income Tax (Transitional Provisions) Act 1997

In the case of unfunded superannuation, no employer contribution is made until the actual benefit is provided on the member's retirement. The appropriate benchmark treatment for these amounts is therefore taxation at personal rates on receipt by the member.

Unfunded superannuation lump sums are taxed in the same way as funded superannuation lump sums from untaxed funds (see the tax expenditures Superannuation - tax on funded lump sums relating to post-June 1983 service and Superannuation - tax on funded lump sums relating to pre-July 1983 service).

Pension payments from an unfunded source are included in the taxpayer's assessable income and are subject to tax at marginal rates. From 1 July 2007, pension payments from an unfunded source became eligible for a 10 per cent tax offset for persons aged 60 or over.

Legislative reference:	Before 1 July 2007: Part III, Division 3, Subdivision AB Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Section 26-80 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Pt IX Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 Superannuation contributions tax acts (surcharge acts After 1 July 2007: Division 290 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Division 295 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 Division 292 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Currently, certain persons are entitled to a full deduction for personal contributions. For the purposes of this deduction, the persons entitled are those who have less than 10 per cent of their income earned as an employee. This includes many unincorporated and substantially self-employed persons.

Prior to 1 July 2007, these persons were not entitled to a deduction for contributions in excess of their age-based limit.

If the level of contributions made by these persons was maintained, but the contributions were not deductible, revenue would be higher by the amounts indicated.

The superannuation surcharge for higher income earners applied to some of these contributions in 2004-05 and earlier financial years. The surcharge was abolished for contributions made on or after 1 July 2005.

C9 Superannuation - measures for low-income earners

From 1 July 2003, a superannuation co-contribution applying to eligible personal superannuation contributions by qualifying people replaced the low-income earners' tax offset.

The superannuation co-contribution is an expense measure. As such, the co-contribution payments are not included in the TES. The amounts indicated represent the impact of the co-contributions not being taxed, and the value of the offset before 2003-04.

An 18 per cent offset is available for post-tax contributions to the superannuation account of a spouse (where the total of assessable income and reportable fringe benefits for the spouse is less than $13,800). The offset applies up to a maximum annual contribution of $3,000 where the spouse income is $10,800 or less, with the eligible contribution limit reducing dollar for dollar for each dollar of spouse income above that amount. The amounts reported are the value of the offset.

C11 Superannuation - tax on excess non-concessional contributions

Social security and welfare ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Division 292 Income Tax (Transitional Provisions) Act 1997 Division 292 Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

Non-concessional contributions include those made from an individual's after tax income (generally undeducted contributions) and excess concessional contributions (that is, employer and personal deducted contributions which have exceeded the annual concessional contribution thresholds). The benchmark treatment of these contributions is that they are taxed like any other income in the hands of the individual (that is, the contributions are taxed at the individual's marginal tax rate).

Prior to 9 May 2006, the tax treatment of non-concessional (then referred to as undeducted) contributions was consistent with the benchmark. Since 10 May 2006, non-concessional contributions have been subject to a cap, with contributions in excess of the cap taxed at the top marginal tax rate, payable by the individual. The taxation of these excess contributions represents a deviation from the benchmark.

A cap of $1 million applies to non-concessional contributions made between 10 May 2006 and 30 June 2007. From 1 July 2007, an annual cap of $150,000 applies to non-concessional contributions, although people under age 65 will be able to bring forward up to two years worth of non-concessional contributions. Exemptions to the cap include proceeds from the disposal of assets that qualify for some small business CGT concessions, up to a lifetime limit of $1 million, and proceeds arising from structured settlements or orders for personal injuries.

For taxed funds, the taxable component of lump sums is generally taxed at 20 per cent where the taxpayer is aged under 55 years.

For lump sums paid before 1 July 2007 to taxpayers aged 55 or over, or paid after 1 July 2007 to taxpayers aged 55 to 59, the element of any lump sum benefit taxed during the accumulation stage is typically taxed at zero per cent up to the low rate threshold and 15 per cent thereafter.

Untaxed funds are those where superannuation benefits are not taxed during the accumulation phase. For taxpayers under age 55 both before and after 1 July 2007, the taxation rate on these elements is typically 30 per cent. For taxpayers aged 55 or over before 1 July 2007, the element of a lump sum untaxed during the accumulation stage was typically taxed at 15 per cent up to the low rate threshold and 30 per cent thereafter. From 1 July 2007, lump sums received by taxpayers aged 55 to 59 are subject to tax rates ranging from 15 per cent to the top rate.

From 1 July 2007, the element of a lump sum from a taxed source relating to post-June 1983 service is tax free for persons aged 60 or over. The post-June 1983 element untaxed in a fund is typically taxed at 15 per cent up to an amount of $1 million for persons aged 60 or over.

The amounts reported are the tax raised on these lump sums.

Before 1 July 2007, the part of a lump sum benefit relating to service before July 1983 was taxed at a lower rate. Only 5 per cent of the pre-July 1983 amount was included in a taxpayer's assessable income and subject to tax at marginal rates. This concessional treatment reflected the regime for taxing eligible termination payments that existed before July 1983. Applying the post-June 1983 tax rates to these funded benefits would have imposed a tax retrospectively. The amounts reported are the tax raised on these lump sums.

From 1 July 2007, the component of a lump sum benefit relating to pre-July 1983 service is tax free.

The taxable component of superannuation income stream payments received by a taxpayer before 1 July 2007 was included in assessable income and subject to tax at marginal rates. The taxable component of superannuation income stream payments from a taxed source to a taxpayer aged 55 or over generally attracted a tax offset of 15 per cent. The tax raised reduces the total superannuation tax expenditure, as under the benchmark withdrawals from superannuation are tax free.

From 1 July 2007, superannuation income stream payments from a taxed source are tax free for persons aged 60 or over. The taxable component of superannuation income stream payments received by a taxpayer below age 60 are included in assessable income. A tax offset of 15 per cent applies to the taxable component of superannuation income stream payments paid to taxpayers aged 55 to 59, and to disability benefits paid to taxpayers of any age.

The taxable component of pension payments from an untaxed source are eligible for a 10 per cent tax offset for persons aged 60 or over.

From 1 July 2007, this item relates to the tax on funded pensions for persons under the age of 60.

Under the fringe benefits tax benchmark, the value of a car fringe benefit is the cost of providing the vehicle (for instance, where the vehicle is provided under a lease, the value of the lease payments) plus the associated vehicle running costs. The statutory formula method for valuing car fringe benefits values the benefit as a proportion of the acquisition cost of the vehicle, which declines as distance travelled by the vehicle each year increases. This approach may result in the undervaluation of the benefit when calculating fringe benefits tax with the result that less tax is paid on car fringe benefits than would be if the cost of the benefit were paid by the employee out of after tax cash remuneration.

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11
..	..	..	..	..	..	..	..

Tax expenditure type:	Exemption	2006 TES code:	E2
Commencement date:	2000
Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Section 104-47 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

For capital gains tax purposes, perpetual conservation covenants are treated as a part disposal of land, rather than the creation of a right. This treatment results in a reduced capital gain because a portion of the cost base of the land is taken into account. Previously the capital gain equalled the amount received for the covenant less incidental costs.

Landowners can also benefit from any capital gains tax concession or exemption that may apply to the capital gain. For example, a capital gain from a covenant granted in respect of land owned before 20 September 1985 is exempt. In addition, the capital gains tax discount may now apply if the land has been owned for at least 12 months.

Capital gains or losses on the disposal of an individual's main residence and up to two hectares of adjacent land are exempt from capital gains tax.

- A taxpayer is entitled to treat a dwelling as their main residence from the time they acquire it until the time when they first occupy it provided they occupy it as soon as practicable.

- A taxpayer is entitled to treat a dwelling as their main residence indefinitely if it was the main residence and then ceases to be their main residence provided it is not used to produce assessable income.

- A taxpayer is entitled to acquire a dwelling that is to become their main residence, whilst still owning an existing dwelling and treat both dwellings as their main residence for up to six months or until their ownership of the existing dwelling ends, whichever occurs first.

- A taxpayer is entitled to treat a block of land as their main residence, if the land was acquired for the purposes of building a dwelling, the dwelling is completed within four years of acquiring the land, the taxpayer moves into the dwelling as soon as practicable and the dwelling continues to be their main residence for at least three months.

Legislative reference:	Sections 118-145, 118-190 and 118-200 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997

A taxpayer's dwelling may continue to be treated as their main residence for up to six years (the six year rule) even if the dwelling ceases to be their main residence and is used to produce assessable income. This is provided that no other dwelling is treated as the taxpayer's main residence during this time.

In addition, from 20 August 1996, a taxpayer who receives a dwelling as beneficiary of a deceased estate, or who owns the dwelling as the trustee of a deceased estate, may be able to ignore for capital gains tax purposes, any use of the dwelling to produce assessable income by the deceased prior to their death if:

- the dwelling was the deceased's main residence before their death; and
- it was not being used to produce assessable income at the time of the deceased's death or, if the dwelling was used to produce assessable income, that use was ignored under the six year rule.

A capital gains tax roll–over is available for capital gains arising from the disposal of active small business assets if the proceeds of the sale are used to purchase other active small business assets. Active assets include assets used in carrying on a business and intangible assets inherently connected with a business (for example, goodwill). An eligible small business is one where the net value of assets that the taxpayer and connected entities own is no more than $5 million (this asset test was increased to $6 million from 1 July 2007).

From 1 July 2007, small businesses with average annual turnover of less than $2 million have been able to access this concession under the Small Business Framework without having to satisfy the net value of assets test.

Capital gains tax (CGT) concessions are available to defer or exempt the CGT payable in respect of the restructuring of a corporate or trust group, where the group is split into two or more entities or groups (that is, by demerging). There are three elements to demerger relief:

- CGT roll-over relief at the shareholder or trust membership interest level for interests such as shares that are exchanged during the demerger process;
- a CGT exemption for certain capital gains and losses at the entity level; and
- an income tax exemption for certain 'demerger dividends'.

These concessions are available to demergers that occur on or after 1 July 2002.

Capital gains tax roll-over relief is available for capital gains where an asset is compulsorily acquired, lost or destroyed and the taxpayer purchases a replacement asset. In recognition that the disposal was not initiated by the taxpayer, the capital gains liability is deferred from the time of the compulsory acquisition, loss or destruction until the ultimate disposal of the replacement asset.

This measure has been extended to establish the same treatment for a compulsory acquisition whether by a private or public acquirer and to provide greater flexibility for landowners whose land is compulsorily subject to a mining lease.

Capital gains tax roll-over relief is available for capital gains arising from an exchange of interests in companies or fixed trusts. The roll-over relief ensures that an equity holder who exchanges original shares or other equity for new equity in a takeover or merger can defer a capital gains tax liability arising from the exchange until the ultimate disposal of the replacement asset. The roll-over relief ensures that capital gains tax does not impede takeovers and similar arrangements. This tax expenditure is likely to vary considerably depending upon actual takeover and merger activity. Estimates for the projection years are based on the average activity in preceding periods.

Certain non-resident investors are exempt from tax on profits and gains in respect of their eligible venture capital investments.

The concession introduced in 1999 provides an exemption from tax on the disposal of investments in new equity in eligible venture capital investments to non-resident pension funds that are tax exempt in their home jurisdiction (being either Canada, France, Germany, Japan, the United Kingdom, the United States or other approved jurisdictions).

The concession introduced in 2002 provides an exemption from tax on the profits and gains in equity investments made by a venture capital limited partnership to certain non-resident partners in the partnership. The exemption is available to a partner who is a tax exempt resident of Canada, France, Germany, Japan, the United Kingdom, the United States or other approved jurisdictions, a venture capital fund of funds established and maintained in those countries, or a taxable resident of Canada, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands (excluding the Netherlands Antilles), New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Taiwan, the United Kingdom, the United States or other approved jurisdictions, that holds less than 10 per cent of the committed capital of a venture capital limited partnership.

The venture capital limited partnerships regime is to be enhanced by:

- removing a range of restrictions including allowing investment in unit trusts and convertible notes as well as shares;
- relaxing the requirement that 50 per cent of assets and employees must be in Australia for 12 months after making the investment; and
- removing restrictions on the country of residence of investors.

Before 1 July 2006, diesel with a sulphur content higher than 50 parts per million was subject to a higher rate of excise than the benchmark rate. The benchmark rate is the rate that applies to unleaded petrol and ultra low sulphur diesel. An excise differential of one cent per litre was implemented from 1 July 2003 and was increased to two cents per litre from 1 January 2004.

From 1 January 2006, diesel with more than 50 parts per million of sulphur no longer meets fuel standards, and is no longer able to be sold unless a waiver is obtained from the Minister for the Environment and Heritage.

Before 1 July 2006, leaded petrol was subject to a higher rate of excise than the benchmark rate. The benchmark rate is the rate that applies to unleaded petrol and ultra low sulphur diesel. The excise differential, which equated to around two cents per litre was originally introduced in 1994 to address health concerns associated with the use of leaded fuels.

The minimal nature of this tax expenditure from 2002-03 reflected the introduction of lead replacement petrol, which is subject to excise at the benchmark rate, and restricted access to leaded petrol (under the Fuel Quality Standards Act 2000) from 1 January 2002. The excise differential was removed on 1 July 2006.

Expiry date:
Legislative reference:	Item 1 of Schedule to the Excise Tariff Act 1921

Alcoholic beverages (other than beer) with an alcohol content not exceeding 10 per cent are subject to a higher effective rate of excise than applies under the benchmark. Under the benchmark, which is based on the tax treatment of full strength beer sold in containers less than 48 litres, the first 1.15 per cent of alcoholic content of an alcoholic beverage whose alcohol content does not exceed 10 per cent is not excisable. This excise-free threshold is not available to alcoholic beverages other than beer (mainly 'ready to drink' beverages) giving rise to a negative tax expenditure.

F17 Wine equalisation tax cellar door rebate

Agriculture, forestry and fishing ($m)

2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11

Tax expenditure type:	Offset	2006 TES code:	F15
Commencement date:	1 July 2000
Expiry date:	1 October 2004
Legislative reference:	Schedule 9A of the Indirect Tax Legislation Amendment Act 2000

Before 1 October 2004, a partial rebate of wine equalisation tax was available for certain cellar door, mail order and internet sales of wine. The maximum rebate of 14 per cent of the taxable value was available for all eligible sales of wine up to $300,000 per annum (wholesale value). The rebate tapered to zero for sales between $300,000 and $580,000.

The rebate complemented similar State production subsidies of 15 per cent, to support cellar door and mail order sales by smaller winemakers.

The rebate was replaced by the wine equalisation tax producer rebate.
