

This is the deal why have laws if they are not enforced in this area.

My son lived in a share house with a lady from China while at uni. She purchased 4-5 houses in Royston Park area over $1 million, in her or a nominee name. The owner was happy the land agent got more commission and the state government was happy also with more stamp duty.

There used to be in South Australia a first home owners grant. My son purchased an existing home and had to pay $11500 in stamp duty, I contacted the treasurer turbo Tom Koutsantonas, about 4 months ago and still have not received a reply.

The kids are stuffed first home buyers are gonna be a dream very soon if something is not done. Get rid of negative gearing and if people are breaking the rules eg agents or purchasers put them in gaol. No buts no excuses.

But the public servants don't want to upset the government of the day and are looking after their way to generous super scheme entitlements, and don't come up with meaty solutions to problems the politicians are only interested in voters if they are on the same side

To not have a register of foreign homeowners landowners or landholders shows how weak all talk no action you mob are.

And if you really want my views please ring [withheld]

Cheers Brendan