Recent reforms to LAFHA rules in Australia discriminate against foreign workers. I am a member of this community of people and I am not currently represented in Australian politics. I came here with my husband and children to work for an international company and to pay tax and help deliver the key infrastructure that australia needs to advance and build on its assets. I wish to return to the uk at some point in future and this measure if it successful and goes through and is approved - will make that happen quicker.
