Yet another attack on the environment by a government that has lost all credibility regarding ensuring a future for our planet and our children who will inherit this sorry mess. Environmental groups shouldn't have to exist! But they are necessary because of the selfish, ego driven and corrupt (or just plain ignorant!) politicians who have become nothing more than corporate secretaries rubber stamping greed driven corporate environmental disasters. Everyone I speak to has not got a good word for today's political scene and the sycophantic characters that call themselves government.

So go ahead, place unrealistic limitations on environmental groups and watch the already growing groundswell of backlash grow even more!
