

Travel expenses and plant deductions

I would like all of my personal details kept confidential.

I write to express that I disagree with the proposed changes.

Investment properties must be investigated and maintained. Failure to attend interstate properties provides opportunities for foul play by agents and interested parties that you will never meet. On a low income, this important visit effectively removes the family holiday (if you are able to afford it from after tax dollars that many can not). This will impact family life.

Further, many investors purchase investment properties that were previously family homes or investment properties in which the investor failed to take advantage of deductions. It is not true to say that it is double dipping in all instances.
