Hi s 22

Anna has asked me to respond to your question on her behalf.

We are in the process of finalising the next edition of the Charities Report. Our analysis indicates that the proportion of charities with an online presence has increased to 52%. This may be a website, a Facebook page, or other platforms for online engagement.

It is important to note that the provision of an online presence is optional for charities to provide. It is likely that the proportion of charities with an online presence is actually higher than 52%.

We expect the proportion of charities with an online presence to increase in the coming years. As part of the Charity Marketplace (where charities report based on each of their programs), charities can nominate a webpage for each program.

Hi Anna,

We are looking to estimate the regulatory burden associated with a yet to be determined more narrowed change to governance standard 3.

I note that the 2018 ACNC charities report indicates that 34% of charities reported an online presence.

Are you able to provide a more up to date estimate of the online presence of charities? We are hoping to send our analysis of the regulatory burden to the Office of Best Practice Regulation on Monday 22 March.

If my request is problematic (and time consuming) I am happy to use the 2018 figure. I was hoping someone in the ACNC may have this information on hand.

Kind regards
