

The Director,
Corporate Tax Policy Unit Treasury, ACT

Dear Director,

I wish to object, in the strongest possible terms, to the very hastily introduced, proposed legislation.

To me it is another attempt by the government to short change investors who have saved and planned their affairs around a very sensible and legitimate tax system.

No doubt, the legislation, if enacted will have consequences in terms of Australian companies ability to manage their affairs and their ability to reward shareholders.

To introduce retrospectivity into the equation is APPALLING and will surely impact on the very investors who the original legislation was designed to attract.

I submit that this matter needs to have the opportunity of public debate and introduction of the legislation should be deferred until that has transpired.

Sincerely

James Sheppard
