

Dear Sir or Madam,

I wish to object to the above proposed legislation. First it is a broken election promise and second it will hit the little people of Australia who have battled to look after themselves. Changing the rules will destroy traditional superannuation and benefit only the Industry Funds who are so closely allied to the ALP.

This is not governing for all Australians.

Please remember that the present rules were set up by Paul Keating who believed in personal superannuation and who thought that double taxation was iniquitous . It is impossible to plan if the government sees fit to change the rules and of course retrospective legislation is authoritarian.

Please note my objection.

Sincerely

Graeme Banks
